Isolation Series

Hand built with thin translucent sheets of Casting slip and stains

Artist Notes

Isolation Series

This series was made during last year's lockdown. It made me think about being cooped up, unable to mix with other people.

These pieces are made with paper thin translucent sheets of casting slip and inlaid with colours. Extremely fragile during the building process, but stronger than they look after firing.

Tangaroa's Garden

Musing on what it would be like in another world- this one under the ocean- while the one we live in is in chaos.

These works have been coiled using groggy clay, with the additions of porcelain and fine sheets of casting slip. Fired in reduction to 1300°

Visitor series

My visitors are humanoid, but not human. I consider them as coming from another world - maybe the forest, underground, prehistoric or even outer space. Some of them even turn into birds of a sort! Coiled using groggy clay, fired to 1300° in reduction with a copper-based glaze.

Carved Bowls

Wheel thrown; these bowls are carved while green (unfired). This is a delicate job and I lose many at this stage.

Porcelain fired to 1300° in reduction (the celadon and black) and earthenware. 1160° in oxidation for the lime green.
